TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This will introduce.....Mr. Patrick E. Tucker..... recently discharged from the Canadian Naval Services.

In order to facilitate their civilian re-establishment, those who have served in the Navy are provided with their discharge certificate and certain other Service documents in addition to the information outlined below.

Civilian and Service History

On the back of this sheet is a summary of education and of pre-enlistment work experience, together with some details of Naval training, specific duties, promotions and awards.

Naval Training and Duties

Attached sheets outline the training and usual duties of such a rating as the bearer. (The rates in the Navy constitute a series roughly parallel to Army ranks from private to sergeant-major).

Related Civilian Work

In the centre pages of a folder addressed to the rating are suggestions of civilian work related to Service training.

For this, and other Naval rates, a more detailed list of civilian work related to Naval training has been prepared for the use of Naval counsellors. A complete set of these may be obtained on request from the Secretary, Naval Board, Naval Service Headquarters, Ottawa.
