

April 20th 1944.

Dear Ray, Millie & Family:

Here's that long lost kid bro' once again. It sure has taken me an awful long time getting around to writing to everyone and your turn's shown up once again so here goes a few more lines.

Was very happy to receive Ruth's letter the other day and boy some of the contents were sure surprising and no faultin'. There was one point of interest of course you probably know just what I mean. Before the folks knew it their eldest grand-daughter shall be married. Guess Art & Ed are just naturally slow. All joking aside I guess she is quite a young lady now, especially somewhat out on her own giving her a maress grown up appearance. The best of lucks in every thing Ruth, I'm sure you'll do your best now, & keep up the real good work. Say Bro. what was the buzz of you paying the folks a visit did you ever come around to it or what's new? Never did hear any more of it from them so it's up to you for some information. How are you & the two youngest Mrs. B. all in the best of health & spirit I hope. One of these fine days how about taking some time off and send some snaps of the whole family my way. I sum's I ask you for some before, but no dice as yet. Elsie should be wandering around home sometime soon I hear, that shall be quiet a present for the folks for it has been quiet sometime since she was home. One of these fine days I hope to wander in lets hope we are all home by then tho' & then for a whole of a get-together. I can hardly wait.

How's your illness Ray improving any? Lets hope so it really is too bad to hear of it, I guess it seems to appear at the wrong time of things. Let me know how things are going. It seems the folks were rather disappointed in hearing from me this last few times and finding me out here. I was trying to get on leave & be home with Art, but that's luck for you. Never seems to come out just how you would like them too. There's hoping the won't worry too much for things are going fairly well, or as can be expected. Best you measure them some will give for it will be an immense favour as far as I'm concerned. Have been having quite a time catching up in my correspondences for all my back mail is just starting to come in. It sure is fun trying to
